

SITE

Impact studies

The Life Adsorb project is part of an environmental approach, which is why it was chosen to integrate the European Life program. An impact study carried out on the site allowed the project to follow an environmentally friendly approach by fitting harmoniously into the landscape.

In progress